

Intact Inland Marine | Job Site Protection

In the highly competitive construction business, the last thing you need is to have your equipment or materials stolen. Theft is a prevalent problem in the industry, with millions of dollars worth of equipment and materials stolen every year. Intact Inland Marine has joined forces with tattletale to offer extra layers of protection against this threat. By working with tattletale, our policyholders can hinder thieves and greatly reduce the chance of stolen equipment or materials on a job site.

Who is tattletale?

tattletale has been protecting some of the nation's most protected assets for more than 15 years. Companies such as Turner Construction and American Electric Power rely on tattletale's unbeatable technology to protect high-value construction sites and the nation's power grid. Government Agencies like the U.S. Navy, Ohio Bureau of Criminal Investigation and NASA use tattletale's customizable wireless capability to monitor assets on land and at sea, utilize its stealth technology on high priority undercover operations and protect valuable instruments and technology for the space program. With no phone line to cut and a completely tamper-proof base unit, contractors know their job site and equipment are provided with an adequate level of security.

How tattletale Works

The tattletale commercial base unit is a portable, wireless, and cellular based alarm system that has a wireless range of a 1/2 mile and is completely tamper proof.

tattletale owners can add up to 500 sensors to each base unit protecting assets in any condition. Choose from a variety of environmental sensors including motion, outdoor, fire and water sensors to protect anything, anywhere, anytime.

tattletale is a very dependable and flexible alarm system. Just plug the unit in and your most valued assets are protected in 60 seconds.

In a few simple steps, you can have your base unit protecting your job site with wireless protection. Additional sensors are available allowing you to customize your system and ensuring that you're always protected from intrusion, property and environmental damage.

Special Policyholder Pricing

As a Intact Inland Marine policyholder, tattletale security equipment can be purchased at preferred pricing of 20% off their regular retail price.
